The course addresses the dynamics of public safety, emergency services, or medical career. We enter our jobs as idealistic and committed employees and along the way have to find ways to avoid becoming cynical, angry and self destructive. Some of us even become "self-perceived victims" of our agencies or employers. Dr Gilmartin provides critical information to personnel on how this process might take place with preventive strategies on how to remain committed productive employees

Instructor:

Dr. Kevin M. Gilmartin is a psychologist, having served as supervisor for the Behavioral Science Unit and Hostage Negotiation Team at the Pima County Sheriff's Department for 20 years. Dr. Gilmartin is an instructor for local, state and federal agencies in Emotional Survival related topics. He instructs for national conferences with law enforcement, tele-communicators, fire fighters and medical personnel. He maintains a consulting relationship with the FBI, DEA, and many others for behavioral science issues. He receives extremely high ratings for his instruction and information. Dr. Gilmartin is the former recipient of the IACP/Parade Magazine National Police Officer award.

"I started out loving this job, then I began hating it and counting the years until retirement, now I know what is going on and how to correct it" -Previous Attendee Comment

"This course lets me review and rethink how I relate to my department, the public and my own family" -10 year veteran of Public Safety
